Join Us in our Fall Celebration for Helena’s new YPR and KGLT Transmitters!

Last Chance Public Radio is getting ready for our 2017 Fall Auction - Saturday, Nov. 18th, 6pm at the Staggering Ox for our 33rd year helping to ensure quality public radio listening in the Helena area. We’ll join with a couple hundred public radio friends and family celebrating this year’s big news - Helena’s new KGLT and YPR transmitters!

In a cooperative effort with KGLT and Yellowstone Public Radio, Last Chance Public Radio helped both stations acquire new transmitters in Helena – KGLT at 89.1 FM and YPR at 88.5 FM. LCPRA’s donation of its Mt. Belmont transmitter license to YPR catalyzed their trade of the Hogback Mtn. transmitter to KGLT (who also plan to give YPR their 98.1 translator). The effort also addressed our long-term goal to help KGLT acquire a permanent transmitter license for Helena - now all three stations LCPRA brought to Helena are protected and here for the long run.

This year we are focusing more on celebration and less on auctioning hundreds of items. While we will still have a silent auction for quality pottery, paintings, gift baskets, gift certificates and public radio shirts, hats, and mugs – all donated by generous local merchants, artists, and listeners – the number of items will be fewer to provide more time for all to celebrate public radio, including the new transmitters for KGLT and Yellowstone Public Radio!

Helena’s own Night Crawlers (formerly the WMDs) are back this year for the evening’s musical entertainment. They bring a lively mix of bluegrass tunes - quality music you will love. Our food offerings look to be better than ever, with food and desserts from the Staggering Ox, Mediterranean Grill, Benny’s Bistro, the Big Dipper, Park Avenue Bakery and Main Street Eats, all complimentary with admission.

Local craft beers from Helena’s own Blackfoot River, Lewis & Clark and Ten Mile Creek Brewing companies and a variety of wines from The Pan Handler will be available at the no-host bar; non-alcoholic beverages are also available. Come celebrate another great year of diverse public radio in Helena at Last Chance Public Radio Association’s 29th Annual Fall Auction, Saturday, November 18th, at the Staggering Ox.

Admission - $20 for individuals / 10 years & under free
